FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

24 MARCH 2014

History In The Highlands - 2 Exciting Displays This April The Kangaroo March & The Bradman Museum

Throughout the month of April there will be a great historic display in place at the Southern Highlands Information Centre in Mittagong, one featuring the Bradman Museum with imagery and objects from throughout the years, and the other commemorating the original Kangaroo March and celebrating the re-enactment of this famous Australian March which will take place in 2015.

As part of this overall historic display in April, the Southern Highlands Information Centre will play host to a very special day on Wednesday 2 April for all local residents who are interested the history of the Kangaroo March, and invites all those who may have some family history from the original March to bring it in and have it catalogued and recorded for prosperity by member of the Kangaroo March Re-Enactment Committee. So mark this day in your diary NOW!

It's also VIP RED CARPET DAY, and there will be wine and food tastings from Sutton Forest Estate Wines and Denmar Olives.

The Kangaroo March Re-enactment representatives will be on hand between 11am and 1pm to discuss any memorabilia from the original March and to talk about the re-enactment which will take place in 2015 tracing the steps of our ancestors as they made their way through southern NSW towns and villages from Wagga Wagga to Sydney.

For further information please contact The Southern Highlands Information Centre, 62-70 Main Street, Mittagong. Phone 4871 2888 or email tourism@wsc.nsw.gov.au
